The question of the time of arrival of the National Grange in this city is not as yet settled. The visitors may come Friday and they may not come at all. Such was the information conveyed to a committee consisting of Mayor D. W. Badger, President W. B. Marvin of the Board of Trade, A. O. Benfield, George Smallton and F. W. Hartford, last evening, who were planning for the entertainment of the visitors. The committee expects to have definite information this evening. ASK THAT REBELS BE RECOGNIZED

General Carranza Stops Unofficial Parleys and Now Wants Formal Papers--Victories Give Rebels Increased Confidence

Nogales, Mex.—Francisco Escudero, minister of foreign relations in the Carranza cabinet, asked William Bayard Hale, President Wilson's agent late today to present his credentials before continuing further with the conference which have been under way here informally for several days. This was interpreted by a virtual demand for recognition of the Constitutional revolution before the exchanges between the Carranzistas and the Washington government are finished. "For our part extra official negotiations are ended," Escudero said. "We

THAW GAINS NEW HOPE

Old Habeas Writ Withdrawn
for New One to Be Reviewed by Federal Court.

Concord, Nov. 18.—Harry K. Thaw occupies tonight the same apartments at a local hotel which have been his home since Sept. 17, and now, as then, he is in the joint custody of United States Marshal E. P. Nute and High Sheriff Hohman A. Drew. But his legal status has been altered materially in 24 hours. After an all day hearing before Judge Edgar Aldrich in the United States court for the district of New Hampshire at the federal court room in this city today, an agreement was reached between William T. Jerome, counsel for the state of New York, and Thaw's half-dozen lawyers, Judge Aldrich assenting, whereby these steps were taken. The writ of habeas corpus filed by Thaw at Littleton in September was temporarily suspended. Thaw was arrested by Sheriff Drew under the extradition warrant issued by Governor Feltner. A new and supplementary writ of habeas corpus under the extradition proceedings was filed by Thaw's counsel. To this the state of New York was given seven days to reply, with Thaw to have five days thereafter in which to make his reply. Then all the documents in the case are to be printed and briefs filed by both parties. This having been done, Judge Aldrich will fix a day on which final arguments will be made before him on the question of constitutional law raised in the petition for habeas corpus, viz: Does Thaw's case come under the extradition laws? Apparent doubtless will be taken from his decision by one side or the other, and the case will then progress to the United States supreme court. Meanwhile, for the present at least, Thaw will remain in this city in his present status. No mention was made today of bail, parole, or other like proceedings. The presence of Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess county, N. Y., led to the belief that Jerome had expected to take Thaw back to New York, but nothing happened to substantiate that belief. Jerome's first proposition was to have the first writ of habeas corpus granted and Thaw released, to be at once rearrested under the Governor's extradition warrant, but to this Thaw's counsel objected as possibly meaning the loss of standing in the United States court. As the Governor's warrant for extradition specified that Thaw should have an opportunity to preserve his rights by habeas corpus proceedings in either the state or federal courts, as he might choose, Jerome agreed to the other program as stated above.

CANNOT OPERATE WATER SYSTEM

Counsel for Town of New Castle Says that Town Must Purchase Water Franchise of Portsmouth

The town of New Castle is somewhat stirred up over the proposed introduction of a water system. Recently Chairman Eaton of the board of selectmen asked the legal opinion of William E. Marvin, which is here given. Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 19, 1913. Elmer E. Eaton, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Selectmen of New Castle, N. H. Dear Mr. Eaton: I have carefully examined the record of the special town meeting called for October 7th, last, and held on that date and October 14th by adjournment, with reference to a water system for the town. Also I have examined the law pertaining to the subject and I am constrained to the conclusion that the record does not authorize or empower the selectmen to take any action looking to the establishment of a water system in the town of New Castle nor the taking of water from the City of Portsmouth for town purposes and distribution among its inhabitants. In the first place up to 1907 towns could not establish water systems without legislative enactment. In 1907 by Chapter 126 of the Laws of that year towns were authorized and empowered "to construct, manage, maintain and own suitable water works for the purposes of introducing into and distributing through any portions of said towns an adequate supply of water in subterranean pipes for extinguishing fires and for the use of its citizens, and for such other public, private and mechanical purposes as said town may from time to time authorize and direct."—Section 1. But that act was not to "apply to any town wherein there is now established a private water system chartered by the State . . . unless said private water system is purchased by said town or otherwise legally acquired."—Section 8. "A private water system chartered by the state is already in operation in the town of New Castle by the City of Portsmouth, which is operating under the charter originally granted to the Proprietors of the Portsmouth Aqueduct, so that the Act of 1907 does not apply to the town of New Castle and it is not empowered to "construct, manage, maintain and own water works" unless it purchases the system operated in the town by the City of Portsmouth. In 1911 an act was passed (Chapter 367 of the Laws of 1911) by which New Castle was empowered "to purchase, receive, take, hold and enjoy from the City of Portsmouth the franchise, rights and privileges, to lay water pipes through the streets of said New Castle and to maintain the same and to supply the inhabitants of said New Castle with water;" and the City of Portsmouth was authorized to sell the same. This means that the City of Portsmouth and the Town of New Castle may contract for the sale of Portsmouth's franchise in the Town of New Castle, not that New Castle may buy water from Portsmouth and distribute it, but that it may buy Portsmouth's right to maintain pipes and to distribute water. In order to authorize the selectmen to contract with the City of Portsmouth for the purchase of its franchise in New Castle, the town would have to vote that authority at a regular or special meeting on a proper article in the warrant warranting said meeting. This has never been done and until New Castle has voted to buy Portsmouth's rights to maintain water works and distribute water, in that town, New Castle cannot maintain and operate a water system, for the reasons above stated and for the same reasons the record and the votes submitted to me and referred to heretofore do not clothe the selectmen with any power to do anything at all in the direction of establishing a water service to be maintained by the town of New Castle. I may say in closing that if New Castle really desires to establish a water works within its borders and to buy water from Portsmouth for distribution among its inhabitants that the proper course of procedure under existing law would be as follows:

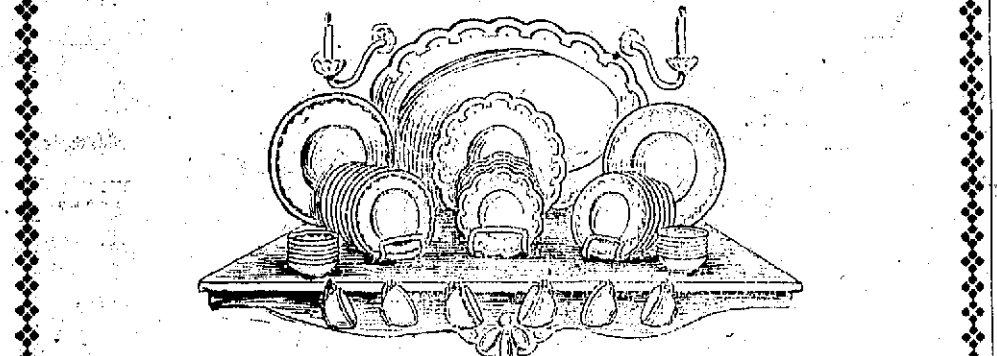

NEW HAVEN SECURES LOAN

Temporary Arrangement With
J. P. Morgan & Co. to Raise the Money.

New York, November 18.—A temporary loan of $15,000,000 to meet $40,000,000 of notes maturing December 1 and other pressing requirements was arranged today by the New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. Details of the loan are set forth in the following statement, issued after a prolonged session of the road's executive committee. "The directors of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. were advised by their counsel that under the terms of the decision of the Massachusetts state commission, the proposed issue of $47,500,000 convertible debentures is legal and that they could therefore, under the provisions made properly issue the same. "In view however of pending litigation in regard to the issue the board has deemed it wise to defer the issue of said securities until the matter shall have been finally passed upon by the supreme court of the state. "It is well understood that the company has maturing on December 1, 1913, $40,000,000 of notes and other immediate cash requirements. The results therefore of this litigation has been to make it necessary to provide this very large amount of money under exceptional conditions which certainly could not have been foreseen or contemplated. "At a meeting of the executive committee held this day, it was voted that arrangements should be made immediately for the temporary financing of the company pending the issue of the debenture bonds. "Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., fiscal agents of the company under their contract expiring December 5, were therefore called upon to render their services in this emergency. They, together with Messrs. Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston have arranged a loan for the company to the amount of $45,000,000 said loan represented by 8 per cent notes taken at 99 1/2 and payable on or before six months from date, and in any event upon the receipt of the company of the proceeds of the debenture bonds, an agreement having been made to extend the contract in regard to underwriting the debenture bonds to Jan. 28, 1914. "The executive committee have recommended to the board which meets on Friday, November 21, a further extension of the time within which subscribers must pay for the debenture bonds, and these dates will be announced on Friday. All subscriptions to these bonds received pending the final issue are held in a fund apart from the other deposits of the company. HAMPTON BEACH THREATENED BY FIRE

Ashworth Hotel Burned to Ground at Midnight--Two Cottages Dam- aged--Fire of Incendiary Origin-- Beach Fire Department Did Fine Work in Preventing Spread of Flames.

The Ashworth Hotel at Hampton Beach was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight and the burning for a time threatened to wipe out all of the houses at that end of the beach.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight by a member of the Hampton Beach life saving crew, and at that time the hotel was well alight and in a remarkable short time the entire building was a mass of flames, and there was no hope of saving it.

The Hampton Beach fire department responded to the alarm and with the life savers from the beach, did good work in saving the adjoining property. Fortunately there was no wind blowing and the slight breeze sent the sparks toward the water.

At 12:30 the hotel was burned to the ground, and the Janverin cottage on fire and the fire was working toward the Ocean House and the Casino.

The Ashworth Hotel was built about two years ago, and it was one of the largest and best on the beach. It was owned by George Ashworth of Haverhill and was valued at $25,000. The hotel has been closed since September and nobody has been in the hotel for weeks, so that the impression is that the fire was set.

At 1:15 this morning the fire was under control with the hotel burned to the ground, the Ashworth cottage adjoining badly damaged and the Janverin cottage also damaged.

The fire department, and there were not over ten men, most of the time, but they had several hydrant streams and were able to check the fire at the Ashworth and Janverin cottages before it spread to the Ocean House and the Casino.

Real importance of their cause. As soon as the party with Mr. Hale attended General Carranza plans to move his civil and military headquarters back to Hermosillo, the capital of the state of Sonora, where the Constitutional movement was born.

This move it was announced would be followed by a vigorous prosecution of the campaign against Huynas, the Sonoran separatist on the Gulf of California, which is still held by the federalists under General Pedro Ojeda. Carranza's military chiefs are hunting other campaign in the interior.

General Carranza had a long talk this afternoon by telephone with General Villa at Juarez. It was said that Villa expressed a willingness to take orders from Carranza, and that other insurgent chiefs in Chihuahua also were in sympathy with the Constitutional movement.

Y.M.C.A. BAZAAR CLOSES WITH A BASKETBALL GAME

The annual fall bazaar of the Ladies Auxiliary, of the Y. M. C. A. was closed on Tuesday evening, with an exhibition basketball game in the gymnasium. The bazaar has been very successful and the large assortment of goods offered has been readily disposed of.

Last evening the entertainment consisted of a selection by the orchestra, a reading by Miss Mae Warren, a vocal solo by Miss Eunice Kenney.

An exhibition basketball game was played in the gymnasium between the business men and the seniors and it was won by the latter in a very close game.

The game was hard fought and at times strenuous enough to suit anybody and it was not decided until the last two minutes of play, when Ward well threw a goal from a foul and Sanderson shot a goal from the floor, giving them a lead of a point which they were able to hold in the next minute of play.

Between the halves, two Junior teams played, the Blue's captained by Perkins, defeating the Red's captained by Managan. The line up and score of the seniors and business men was as follows:

Y. M. C. A. BUSINESS MEN.
Sanderson rf 10 Pearson
Rand lf 10 L. Corbin
Booma c 10 Humphreys

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Grandma's Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally
That Nobody Can Tell

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked, or gray; also ends dandruff, itching, scalp and falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture is to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

BRITISH WARSHIPS TO KEEP CANAL OPEN

England Urged to Maintain its Fighting Force for This Purpose—A Fortified Canal a Menace to British Shipping.

London, Nov. 18.—"I am voicing the opinion of large merchant shipping interests in saying that we rely upon our costly navy to prepare measures to keep the Panama Canal always open to British shipping," said Charles Stuart Cairns, the representative of extensive Scottish shipping interests when he addressed the Royal United States Service Institution here today.

"It is upon such action alone that it will be possible in the immediate future for the taxpayers to maintain the British navy in its high position as a fighting force," Mr. Cairns said, "for despite the Hay-Panama treaty the world is now faced by a fortified Panama Canal instead of entirely for the benefit of the commerce of all nations. I regard the United States of America as a nation and hope they will accept the term 'all nations' as including themselves. I see nothing to prevent the United States Senate from closing the Panama Canal at will against those having equal rights in its use as such a course appeared to them to be in their exclusive interests. I regard this as a serious situation if not an entire breach of faith by the United States Government."

It is expected that the three retiring members will be on both tickets as has been the custom and possibly an agreement will be reached on Miss Kimball who has the endorsement of the Civic Club and is very well fitted for the position.

TRAMP SAVES LIVES OF MANY PASSENGERS

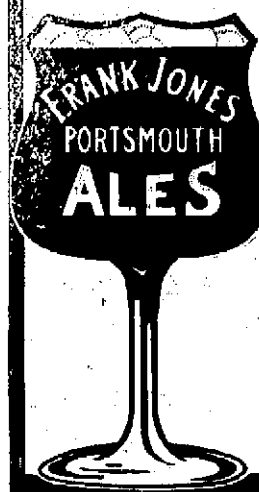

Jessup, Ga., Nov. 18.—Scores of passengers left the coaches of railway train, 16 miles north of here today to shake the hand of a tramp who saved their lives. The train carrying four coaches was rushing towards a broken rail at the rate of 70 miles an hour when the tramp appeared on the track.

When the engineer stopped the train it was within a few feet of the bad rail.

PEACE SOCIETIES ARE ON THE WRONG TRACK

Washington, Nov. 18.—The decline of patriotism in the United States, the cause of it and its ultimate effect is the theme of one of the leading articles in the current issue of The Infantry Journal, the organ of the officers of the infantry and of the regular army. The author of the article is Albert S. Jones of the National Rifle Association of America. "Our present critical relations with Mexico and Japan," the author says, "again emphasize the unprepared condition of this country. In event of war a large army would be required, and while there is no doubt of the ability of this country to raise all the volunteers it desires, the cost in men and money would be tremendous. "In assaulting and opposing military education our peace enthusiasts have gone far astray. Let their ardor and their millions be directed toward removing the causes of war by the correction of social conditions and the promotion of just dealings between man and man, between nation and nation. They also fall into the fallacy of assuming that general peace can be brought about by the suppression

ANOTHER DELAY IS GRANTED TO THAW

Concord, N. H., Nov. 18.—Judge Aldrich, in the Federal Court today, ordered the rearrest of Harry K. Thaw, on the strength of the extradition warrant issued recently by Gov. Feltner. This was done to clear the record but counsel immediately engaged in an argument over the custody of the prisoner and the new arrest was delayed pending the decision of the court on certain technicalities. While the new arrest has changed Thaw's legal status, it made no difference in the limited freedom he has enjoyed since his arrest at Colebrook several weeks ago as a fugitive from justice. Gov. Feltner granted extradition on the ground that Thaw had been indicted in New York County for conspiracy to escape from the Matteawan, N. Y., Insane Asylum, and the prisoner's status had to be changed so that the courts could deal with his case without endless legal complications. The arrest was ordered at a hearing before Judge Aldrich on Thaw's amended petition for a writ of habeas corpus, and also on the motion of the state of New York that the habeas corpus proceedings be dismissed. Practically all of the time was devoted to a discussion of the legal technicalities presented. William T. Jerome, special deputy attorney general of New York, proposed that Thaw's original petition for habeas corpus be granted, and that Thaw be discharged from custody as a fugitive from justice, and he re-arrested on the extradition warrant. Counsel for Thaw objected to such a proceeding, and then Mr. Jerome said

EAST INDIANS MAY TIE UP SOUTH AFRICA

Dunbar, Union of South Africa, Nov. 18.—The strike of East Indians spread today right along to the South Coast, and practically every workman of that race in Natal had laid down his tools this morning. The atmosphere was, however, not so much disturbed as it was yesterday, the white women and children having overcome their first paroxysm of fear but the authorities consider it possible that disorders may break out at any moment, as serious allegations are being made concerning the ill-treatment of the strikers in their compounds, all of which stories are believed by the East Indians. One East Indian died in the coal mining town of Dundee, it is alleged, as the result of flogging, and this, with the arrest of about 2000 of their Nationals for defiance of the Federal law prohibiting the emigration of Asiatics from one state to another of the Union of South Africa, has greatly excited the East Indians, of whom there are many thousands in Natal and the other colonies of South Africa. In order to draw attention of the Imperial Government to this condition of things, these men had marched across the Transvaal border from Natal, and most of the East Indians have refused to pay the poll tax of £15 per head imposed on East Indians in Natal. As the East Indians do practically all the labor in Natal, including that of the farms, the railroads, the sugar, tea and coffee plantations, and the mines, and as most of the mechanics and domestics are East Indians, a general strike of the men of this race throughout South Africa would tie up all the industries. In Natal alone there were, according to the census in 1911 over 140,000 East Indians and other Asiatics, while in the other colonies there are many thousands more. The Government is disinclined to declare martial law, as the employment of imperial troops for the suppression of the trouble among the East Indians would be likely to cause a movement of discontent in British India, where the people already are considerably irritated over the treatment of East Indians in the British colonies.

Could Anything Be Simpler?

THE New Model (Triangle trade mark) Perfection Heater has ended the wicking problem. It makes rewicking simplicity itself. In this latest model wick and carrier are combined. You merely have to turn up the old wick, lift it out, and drop a new one in its place.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

The new Perfection Heater is the best and most economical heater made. It is smokeless, because the patent locking flame-spreader automatically regulates the height of the wick. There is no smell or soot. Note the wide, shallow font which insures constant, even heat whether full of oil or nearly empty.

The Perfection Heater is of the simplest construction. No gallery to unscrew or catch oil and dust. Finished in vitreous, turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel drums. Look for the Triangle, the Perfection trade mark.

THE MEXICAN CRISIS

That the situation between the United States and Mexico is exceedingly grave cannot be denied but that the spilling of blood is a conflict between the two nations is necessary must not yet be said. If the national honor and the interests of humanity demand the armed intervention of the United States in Mexico we must undertake the task with a united spirit and with all the strength we have. But if war can be averted with honor we must hold to peace, for the pacification of a great and arid country like Mexico will be a task that will require thousands of lives and millions of treasure.

Just at this time there is need for a calm and patriotic spirit upon the part of Americans. Jingoists who cry war for the excitement that there is in it, fire-eaters who have financial interests in the southern republic, half-bred persons of all sorts will try with all their might to involve this country in war. Already they have tried their best and failed. Sober-minded and loyal Americans will frustrate their efforts now if peace with honor is possible.

The man who seeks to use the present crisis as a lever for political advancement, who strives to bring about war either to perpetuate the present control of the government or to overrun the party in power is a traitor to the best interest of this nation. It is an hour for high minded patriotism for unselfish loyalty, for calm, deliberate judgment.

We may not all agree with President Wilson in his policy toward Mexico. We may criticize him and that is our right, if we feel that his policy is a mistaken or a dangerous one. But all true Americans will not fail to see that he is striving to do the right thing, that his motives are the highest and patriotic, that his course has been conscientious. In the crisis, therefore, all true Americans therefore will endeavor to uphold his hands, letting suggestions and honest criticism be the full measure of the differences within our national circle, will endeavor to uphold his aims, and to the world, in war or peace let America be united, but let us not allow false patriots to drag us into a struggle that might have been avoided with honor to our cause—Exchange.

MERRY CHRISTMAS IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, Nov. 18.—Plans for a community Christmas celebration to include a gigantic gift bearing tree and more than one thousand carol singers, has been officially undertaken today with the permanent organization of an advisory committee to take charge of the affair. Pledges of support already have been received from men and women in official and civil life and the promoters of the big celebration declare the success is assured. While no site yet has been definitely selected for staging the festivities, it is considered likely the towering fir will be raised in the elms immediately south of the White House. The stretching expanse of lawn will permit an uninterrupted view of the tree and would lend itself to the accommodation of a great crowd.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Nov. 18.—When you have your chimney cleaned don't throw the soot away. Put it on the lawn or on the garden and it will make better grass or crops next year. One manufacturer recently wrote to the college asking if there was any use to which it could be put. He was much interested to learn that his dirt was worth nine dollars a ton as fertilizer.

Prof. F. W. Taylor, of the agricultural faculty, explains that soot is rich in nitrogen, one of the essentials of a good fertilizer. It will kill many pests and keep off slugs. A good fertilizing mixture is made of one part soot, one part lime and five parts dry earth.

Prof. F. W. Taylor, of the department of agronomy of New Hampshire College, is to be judge of corn at the corn show to be given this year from December 2 to 4 inclusive at Springfield, Mass., by the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture.

COLONEL KANE IN THE FIELD

Charlestown Commandant of Marines is Mentioned for Major Generalship. Lieutenant Colonel Theodore P. Kane, commandant of marines at the Charlestown navy yard, is mentioned to succeed Major General William P. Blodgett as commandant of the Marine Corps. Four others are prominently in the field: Colonel L. W. T. Waller, now commanding the marines at the Mare Island station, San Francisco; Colonel Lincoln Karmany, stationed at Washington, D. C.; Colonel George Barnett, commandant at the Philadelphia Marine Barracks and Lieutenant Colonel John A. Lejeune, commandant of the New York Marine Barracks. Lieutenant Colonel Kane is the only candidate from the New England district, and he has entered the field at the request of his friends. He has the endorsement of such men as Colonel Robert M. Thompson, president of the alumni association of the naval academy and founder of the Naval League and also of Captain De Witt Coffman, commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, Lieutenant Colonel Kane is a graduate of the Naval Academy class of '88 and was assigned to the U. S. S. Harvard, and he was stationed here at the barracks when the Spanish prisoners were in camp at Seavey's Island. He served in the Spanish war, Philippine Insurrection, Cuban Pacification in 1908 and the last San Domingo expedition.

WILL OBJECT TO STATE CONTROL

Washington, Nov. 18.—It was evident when the National Conservation Congress met today in its fifth annual convention that a sharp fight was contemplated on Federal policies by those delegates who contend that the Washington Government is usurping the rights of the states to regulate their own possessions. It was reported early that the committee appointed to consider the water power problem had failed to agree and that the majority would recommend a revision of the Government's conservation methods.

That the states' rights advocates will meet with strenuous opposition was made apparent in the speech of Charles Lathrop Puck, retiring president of the organization, who declared the "enemies" sought to make it appear that conservation meant reservation and the locking up of natural resources for future generations. "Another phase of combat," he added, "arises from the insistence with which some interests strive to make it appear that there is a popular clamor for state control of the great Government properties in forests and streams."

"There are some who prefer a return to the old order of things, where, in wasteful gain was the keynote. It is inevitable that with these people true conservation should be unpopular. Thus recognized, the enemy is half-defeated. We must spare no effort, however, to insure complete defeat. That we can do, we all know. That we must do it is obvious."

Editorial 28 Business 37

A New Phase of Divorce Law.

Since the courts of the state of New York decline to recognize as valid a divorce obtained in another jurisdiction against a citizen of that state where he has neither appeared nor answered in the action, and where no personal service has been made upon him within that jurisdiction, is it a good defense in an action for criminal conversation that defendant had married the plaintiff's wife after she had obtained a divorce from the plaintiff in another state without personal service upon him in that state or appearance by him? This question arises in the action of Berney vs. Adriance. The plaintiff and his wife were married in Pennsylvania in 1883. Thereafter they removed to New York, where in 1902 plaintiff voluntarily abandoned his wife and two children to shift for themselves as best they could, never thereafter contributing to their support or attempting to bring about a reconciliation. Later the wife removed to South Dakota, where, after residing there a time, she commenced an action against her husband for absolute divorce for desertion. Upon substituted service a final decree was rendered, the husband making no appearance. She then returned to New York, but soon left for New Jersey, where she was married to defendant. She and her husband then removed to New York, where her former husband brought this action against her present husband for criminal conversation. A verdict for the plaintiff was returned "for the nominal amount of $2,500." On appeal to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, the court holds that defendant's marriage to plaintiff's wife is no defense, since the South Dakota divorce is of no validity for any purpose in New York, and this even though the courts of New Jersey might recognize the decree as binding upon a citizen of that state under the circumstances of this case. As to the damages, the court holds that the verdict is excessive, entitling defendant to a new trial.

A Safeguard for Rural Mail.

People living on a rural route should see that their boxes are substantially fastened to a post set solidly in the ground, at a point convenient for the carrier to drive up to in all conditions of the weather. It has been very noticeable to us when we have had occasion to drive over rural routes that the boxes are not kept up in condition required by the government. Uncle Sam has recently sent out an order to all postmasters where there is a rural route, an order to paint the boxes white and place the names on same in black letters not under two inches high. If this order were complied with by all the routes it would be a vast improvement to the owners as well as to the community and postoffice. Why not comply with the order before the ground freezes—it would make it much nicer for the carrier in the winter when the snow drifts—there are also a few stretches of road on which weeds have not been cut which will be bad when the snow drifts this winter. A stitch in time may bring you mail more regularly during the winter months.

Why Not Settle Disputes by an Umpire?

Have you noticed that boys will obey without dispute or hesitation the voice and commands of their chosen umpire in a game of baseball or football. Why not settle all disputes that way instead of by fists or taunting words? Boys who are in constant association, as in schools or workshops, might take turns being umpire by the day. It would be valuable training in self restraint, in law and order. It is happily becoming the fashion for nations to settle disputes by arbitration, so let these future citizens and law makers be beginning their training by giving as just and impartial training as they are capable of forming.

A contemporary concedes that the world may be growing better, but it insists that there are too many 3-cent men riding around in $3,000 autos.

Don't shun a business man and refuse to trade with him when you have cash simply because you owe him for past accommodations. The way to get even with him for his kindness is to patronize him when you have money and pay for what you want.

It cost Charles Sumner Bird the neat sum of $30,000 for his candidacy for governor of Massachusetts. Well, he had the experience, even if it was costly.

With the numerous aspirants for municipal office, the voters of this city should have no trouble in making their selection.

SEGREGATION AND WHAT FOLLOWS.

We are creating something like a new and separate nation within the limits of our republic. By the spread of the idea of segregation, either officially or by common custom, we are gradually separating the colored people into a community by themselves. We are accustomed them to depend upon themselves for all the society they get. Little by little they are acquiring their own doctors, their own lawyers, even their own retail dealers in various commodities. They depend upon themselves for their amusements, their faces are seldom seen in our theatres and concerts, even in the top galleries, where they once abounded. They have their own restaurants, their own churches and their own brew; in the south and even in some of the Northern states, their own schools. Throughout a large section of the country they travel on their own cars and have their own waiting rooms on the railways.

This picture shows three of the chief men now in the public eye in Mexico. At the left is Querido Mobano, the new minister of the interior. In the middle is President Huerta, and at the right is Manuel Garza Aldape, former minister of the interior, who, deposed by Huerta in favor of Mobano, has gone to Vera Cruz with 200 soldiers. Aldape was one of Huerta's advisers who worked to avert hostilities between Mexico and the United States.

Even in those Northern states where the colored people are few, and where there is no official exclusion of them from schools or other public places, custom tends to their segregation. They prefer to be by themselves. North and South they have their own streets and their own neighborhoods in the cities.

Nothing can possibly arrest this tendency. What will be the eventual result of it? Of one result we may be sure and it will not be a happy one; the colored people will grow more and more unlike the white. In their manner of dress, their speech, their thought, their association with the white people, they imitate the white man and white woman's ways. They assimilate themselves to the American standard. Under complete segregation they pattern themselves upon one another. They grow more distinct. They move away from us.

That means the slow development of an element foreign and hostile, that may sometime be like a poisonous lump of lead in the midst of the internal anatomy of the otherwise healthy republic. From the New York Evening Post.

JUST BETWEEN FRIENDS

Don't let your pay be too highly taxed. Surely your job isn't easy or light. Don't let your life be a little penurious. Still, are you doing your labor all right? Have you been fair to the man who is paying you? Have you been honest and square with the boss? Don't your laziness often delaying you. Haven't your carelessness caused him a loss?

No one denies that your task is laborious. No one denies that you're often hard pressed. Still we would ask though in no wise condescending: Have you been faithfully doing your best? Haven't you wanted a lot of coal lately? Dotted with danger and frayed with fate?

While you are thinking of grievances, maybe the boss has a grievance at you. Simply because of the things that you do; those there are who are wrong in their attitude. Greedy and selfish and crazy for pay. Don't have you really shown fairness and gratitude? Have you been doing the square thing yourself? — Coat Age.

CURRENT OPINION

It is an interesting commentary upon human vanity that the marine is surviving the "jerk" who once so cordially despised him. Because the sea soldier was usually ignorant of the manners, customs and employments of the sailor, in the halcyon period of the clipper and square rigged, he was deemed by the latter unworthy of serious attention. And this notwithstanding that throughout ancient and a very large part of modern history the sea soldier had performed his duty valiantly. For a period, it is true, owing to changes of armament and a general readjustment of naval conditions, cannonading taking the place largely of "boarding," the marine had no fixed place and was more or less in the way, but when "boarding parties" became an essential part of the naval vessel's force, the marine once more became a recognized factor in the situation. He failed, however, even down to the American civil war period, to win the esteem of the able-bodied sailor, and mostly for the reason that the latter could not differentiate him from the landsmen who did not "know the ropes."

This little retrospection is made excusable by the latest move on the part of the American navy department to raise the standard of efficiency in the marine service. The members of the corps, it appears, are no longer to be scattered in small detachments among the navy yards and assigned merely to watchman or police duty. They are to be concentrated in battalions and assigned to points where they will have opportunity of advancing themselves in general education as well as in drill and tactics.

Contrary to common belief, the marine corps is not only one of the most honorable, but one of the oldest branches of the United States military service. It was first authorized on Nov. 10, 1775, so that its formation antedates the establishment of the republic. Since then, in times of peace no less than in times of war, it has distinguished itself at home and abroad whenever opportunity has come to it.—Christian Science Monitor.

MASTER WILSON IS RE-ELECTED

Equal Suffrage Is Called for and Uniform Tax Laws Advocated.

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 18.—Oliver Wilson of Illinois was today re-elected Master of the National Grange for the second time, almost unanimously. All other officers were elected with the exception of the members of the executive committee which goes over until tomorrow. The full list of officers elected is as follows:

Oliver Wilson, of Illinois, Master; W. H. Vary of New York, Overseer; G. W. P. Gaunt of New Jersey, Lecturer; P. C. Humerick of Delaware, Steward; J. A. Sherwood of Connecticut, Assistant Steward; A. P. Hendon of Kansas, Chaplain; Mrs. E. S. McDowell of Massachusetts, Treasurer; C. L. Rice of Minnesota, Gate Keeper; Mrs. Richard Patten of New Hampshire, Ceres; Mrs. J. C. Ketchum of Michigan, Pomona; Mrs. J. A. Peckham of Rhode Island, Flora; Mrs. H. Harland of Idaho, Lady Assistant Steward.

The committee on finance submitted the following report:

"We recommended that the voting members and officers receive $4 a day for time necessary to reach the place of sessions and return therefrom, and 3 cents per mile for distance traveled by the nearest practical route in coming to and returning therefrom."

"We recommended that $100,000 be retained in the treasury for permanent investment and that such surplus over and above as may accrue after paying of running expenses and salaries be placed at the disposal of the executive committee to be used for extension work as follows: Not exceeding $2000 to be expended in each state entitled to representation at this session of the National Grange in co-operation and with the approval of the masters of states where used; not exceeding $5000 for extending the order in states not now entitled to representation in the National Grange."

The report was adopted. Several resolutions were introduced, one presented by State Master Gardner of Massachusetts provides that the state Grange elections be held in November instead of December, as is the case at present.

State Master Patten of New Hampshire introduced a measure calling for full equal suffrage, while State Master Smith of Vermont put in one calling for governmental prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, the question to be submitted to the several states.

State Master Vary of New York reported for the committee on assessment and taxation, his report's substance being that the grange go on record as advocating uniform tax laws in all the states in order that tax-dodging might be done away with. He declared that if the federal government by reason of the income tax can uncover millions that heretofore have been concealed, the states should likewise take up the matter and assess such wealth in order that the burden placed upon the farmer might be relieved.

Tonight the officers and voting members of the grange were guests of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce at a banquet at the Riverside Inn at Hooksett. There were 125 in the party. Following the banquet there was informal speaking. Walter H. Underwood, president of the Chamber of Commerce called the assembly to order and introduced Harry W. Spaulding as toastmaster.

SEEK COCHRANE GIRL IN VAIN

Counsel for Corespondent in Walker Divorce Case
Says She Is Missing.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 18.—The whereabouts of Miss Cochrane of Boston, the correspondent in the divorce case of Nina Walker, against Commander James W. G. Walker, formerly of the navy and son of the late rear admiral, are unknown either to the petitioner or respondent, and although diligent efforts were made to find her nothing is known as to where she is.

Henry T. Richardson of Brookline, a member of the Massachusetts bar and attorney for Miss Cochrane, so testified this afternoon. He said that last month he was at Mrs. John Walker's house on Commonwealth avenue in Boston and was introduced to Miss Cochrane by Mr. Walker's sister, Mrs. John Thomas, wife of Dr. Thomas of Tufts College. Miss Cochrane had refused to come to Newport to testify in the case, but had consented to give her affidavit and had retained Mr. Richardson as her counsel.

"Was any condition placed by her regarding the giving of her affidavit?" asked Mr. Barney, chief counsel for Walker.

"There was," replied Mr. Richardson. "She stipulated that there was to be no publicity regarding it, that is, she didn't want it to get into the papers."

Saturday, Nov. 1, had been fixed as the date for taking a number of other depositions in the case, and Miss Cochrane had consented to appear at that time and give her version of her acquaintance with Commander Walker. On that afternoon, however, she came to Mr. Richardson's office in a very nervous and excited frame of mind and between sobs had said that she would be unable to give her testimony at that time but would do so on the following Saturday, and had gone away with that promise.

Mr. Richardson said he tried to get her to give her deposition as originally planned, but without success. He received a letter from her on the following Tuesday and wrote to her, the letter being directed to the general delivery, Springfield, Mass., but received no answer.

He went to Springfield, but could find no trace of her, although he subsequently learned that she had called his Boston office from Springfield just before he arrived in the latter city. He has made every effort he possibly could to locate her since then, searching hotel registers in Springfield and watching trains there, but with no success.

He has searched in and around Boston and in New York, having reason to believe she was there. He called several times at Newcastle court, the Boston residence of Miss Cochrane, but was told that they had no idea where she was.

During the day Commander Walker's mother finished her cross-examination and a number of witnesses were heard.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If Tongue Is Coated, Or If Cross, Feverish, Constipated Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign that its little liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of California Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless fruit laxative, and mothers can rest easy after giving it because it never fails to make their little insides clean and sweet.

Keep it handy mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of California Syrup of Figs, which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember that there are counterfeiters sold here as surely as salt and sea. That yours is made by the California Fig Syrup Company, brand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

GRAND OPERA IN BOSTON.

The opening week of the Boston Opera Company, besides presenting a well-balanced repertoire of unusual interest, will bring forward a number of important new singers. The opening night with its brilliant performance of "The Jewels of the Madonna" will afford opportunity for Mme. Margherita d'Alvarez and M. Mario Ancona to make their Boston debut, and will re-introduce Mr. Ferrari-Pontana.

Mme. d'Alvarez was born in Peru but received her training in Brussels, where, after her graduation from the Conservatoire, she was appointed concert singer in King Leopold. Her great operatic triumphs have been won at the Opera in Paris, at Covent Garden, in London, and at La Scala, in Milan. Although she will sing Carmela on the opening night in Boston, her real debut will come when she sings Dalila in "Samson et Dalila" which will be presented very soon.

Mario Ancona, baritone, will make his debut as a member of the Boston Opera Company, but he has been heard here before, as long ago as 1911, when he sang "Benedetto" in Mme. d'Alvarez's Carmen. His last season in America was with Hammerstein's Manhattan Company.

"Faust," on Wednesday night, will be the occasion of the debut of two celebrated singers: Lucien Muratore, tenor, and Paolo Ludikar, basso. M.

Muratore is the most prominent tenor of the Paris Opera and has the distinction of having created a long list of roles in operas of Massenet, Saint-Saens, Strauss, and Debussy. His most important task here will be the creation of the role of Paolo in Zandonati's "Francesca da Rimini," which will have its premiere later in the season. Before that, he will be heard as Tristram in "Mona Vanna," a role which he himself created.

Paolo Ludikar is a Bohemian whose first operatic successes were won in Germany. For the past three seasons he has been singing in Italy and South America, where he has met with constant triumphs.

The Italian critics acclaim him as an unusual combination of a wonderful voice, rare artistic taste, and admirable versatility. He will be heard twice during the opening week, as Mephistopheles in "Faust" and as Koenig Mark in "Tristram and Isolda."

Friday night's performance of "Faust" will present Mary Garden as Tosca, and Anna Marconi as Scarpia. Boston will not soon forget the real-life version of some of the scenes of this opera that were given by those same principals last year. The Cavendish will be Giovanni Martinelli. Mr. Martinelli, who is still very young, did not discover that he had an unusual voice until he was serving his army term, when it was discovered for him by the bandmaster under whom he played the clarinet. On completion his service he began a course of training, and immediately upon his debut was acclaimed one of the world's great tenors. He came to Boston fresh from recent triumphs in Philadelphia.

On Saturday afternoon, Mme. Margherita d'Alvarez will assume the role of Dalila, for the first time in America. On her only previous appearance here, Mme. d'Alvarez sang Brangane, so unusual interest will attach to her singing of the soprano role. The Tristan will be Mr. Ferrari-Pontana, who scored such a triumph last year when, though only a visitor in this city, he was called upon at the eleventh hour to sing the role which he will assume Saturday afternoon.

The popular performance of "Lucia di Lammermoor" on Saturday evening, which will present Evelyn Scott as Lucia, will effect the debut of Vincenzo Tadolfo as Edgar.

The Sunday concert, which have been so well received in seasons past, will be given again this winter, on Sunday evenings. The first of the series will be on the evening of Nov. 30, when the artists will be: Elizabeth Amadei, Jos. Swartz-Moré, Vanni Marcoux, and Vincenzo Tadolfo.

HUERTA STILL DEFIANT-- CONGRESS TO CONVENE

The Mexicans Think United States is Merely Bluffing--No Anti-American Feeling Being Shown.

Mexico City, Nov. 18.—The completion of the preliminary organization of both branches of the new Mexican Congress is regarded here as putting the final touch to President Huerta's defiance.

Surprise was caused here today by the publication of dispatches from Washington indicating that President Wilson does not contemplate any active measures tending to support the notification given by John Lind, his personal representative, to Huerta, warning him against permitting the new Congress to convene.

Talk of the possibility of Huerta resigning is still heard, but all the acts and utterances of the Provisional President are calculated to dissipate the idea that he has any such intentions.

It has been suggested that Washington had been given assurances that Huerta would resign to the new Mexican Congress after it has ratified his act since the dissolution of the former Congress.

Foreigners here had been keyed up to a point at which any action promising relief from the prevailing tension would have been acceptable. There is a large proportion of the native population which appears to be keenly alive to the necessity of bringing present conditions to an end, and which looks upon intervention as the only relief in sight.

Mexican officials here seem to be convinced that the United States is bluffing and are quoted as stating that they are satisfied there will be no armed interference with their affairs.

A singular fact noticeable here, and much commented on by foreign residents, is the continued absence of any anti-American spirit among Mexicans in the Federal capital. Efforts of certain native newspapers, both editorially and through their news columns, to stir up such feeling, have met with little success, so far as outward evidence shows.

Similar efforts on the part of the Mexican press at the time of the Madero revolution filled the streets of the Mexican capital with mobs of the lower classes, led by students who shouted against everything American. Mexicans explain the difference of sentiment on the present occasion to be due to the character of the controversy, which fails to excite the sympathy of most of the people.

The announcement that a diplomatic reception would be given by Senora Benita Aguirre de Huerta, the wife of the provisional President, at Chapultepec Castle tomorrow, gave place to a story that Huerta today had taken up his residence there.

It was explained that Senora Huerta had decided to hold the reception at the castle because of the inadequate accommodations of the private home of the Huertas in Liverpool street, Chapultepec Castle is the official residence of the Mexican President.

BLOCKADE NOT CERTAIN.

Washington, Nov. 18.—President Wilson and the Cabinet met today, and discussed the latest phases of the Mexican situation. Overnight developments apparently brought no change, but keen interest was shown in the organization of the new Mexican Congress.

Some officials were inclined to believe that Huerta would head the warning of the United States and take no action on concessions.

Talk of a blockade of Mexican ports was revived, but high officials said such a step had not been determined upon. Many moves are under consideration, but foremost advisers of the administration are counselling patience while the Constitutionalists pursue their campaign.

The report that Carranza might need to have the embargo on arms lifted to insure his success strengthened the conviction of many officials that such a step should be taken only in a remote contingency. Confidence prevailed that the United States might wait a few days for the full effect of the recent Constitutionalists' victories and for the attitude of foreign governments to become more emphasized.

HER FIRST BALL GAME.

One of Many Variations of an Old, Old Theme.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the girl with the panama hat a little breathlessly as she and the young man took their seats in the front box. "What are they yelling so far?"

"Why, because Collins just came on the field and they like him," explained the young man. "I'm glad you could come today. I don't often get a fellow gets a chance to take a girl who really knows about the game and is interested in it."

"Oh, I just love baseball!" said the young woman enthusiastically. "Merry but these chairs are tipsy! Oh, I've dropped my empty case! Right down there under those seats in front!"

"The young man powdered on the floor, upsetting two fat men in front of him, who reproached him in guttural tones. In the excitement they missed a wonderful play and glared red faced and savage at the howling mob stretching out on either side.

"What happened?" demanded the young man eagerly of the girl with the panama hat as he delivered the rescued piece of jewelry.

"Why, nothing," she said, with a little frown. "I never heard people make such a lot of noise!"

"Well, if you want to know, the man with the hat hit the ball, but he struck it too hard, because it went miles—over there by the benches—and a man there seemed to catch it, and then the yelling began. That's what they're supposed to do—catch balls, isn't it? Then why did they make such a fuss?"

"Sometimes they're hard to catch," said the young man. "Oh, wow!"

"I never saw you so excited!" rejoined the young woman.

"A three-bagger! A three-bagger, and a beauty!" cried the young man, turning his beaming face on her. "Did you ever see anything better than that?" "Hark!" repeated the young woman, bewildered. Then she smiled sweetly at him. "I love your tin, Jimmy," she said. "You have the best judgment when it comes to selecting—"

"Get him! Bat him alive!" the young man was yelling as he stood up and pounded frantically on the back of one of the fat men in front of him, who paid not the slightest attention, because he was doing likewise to the person in front of him. "A home run! And all because that fellow fouled!" He sat down, breathing hard.

"Jimmy," said the young woman to him in a hoarse whisper, "somebody back of me jammed, actually jammed, my hat all over my head, he was in such a hurry to get up and shout. I'm not fussy, but I must say—"

"You'll have to excuse a little excitement at a ball game," said the young man, with one eye on the field. "Haven't you always noticed it's a good-natured fellow and takes a game? Look—your missing some of the team work—see them pass that ball!"

"Just like football, isn't it?" asked the young woman enthusiastically. "My goodness!"

She stared at the bags of popcorn her escort was buying and then at her gloves.

"Some it wouldn't be baseball to you without this stuff," he said. "How many can you eat? Three or four?" "Gremlins!" said the young woman faintly, and removed her gloves. A voracious glance around showed many people desperately eating the stuff, with their eyes glued on the field, pausing once in a while to yell. "I should think that man talking down there would confuse the players."

"He's trying to," responded the young man. "That's the best thing he does—part of the game. Was that a strike?"

"Why, he hit the ball," the young woman said. "So it must be. What makes all those numbers flare up on that blackboard down there?"

"The young man turned and stared at her. "I suppose girls don't care much about keeping score," he concluded out loud. "Or you'd have noticed it before. O-o-oh, Ethel! A peach! Did you see it?"

"You mean the one in the hat with the roses on it?" she inquired frostily.

The young man came to and regarded her attentively. "Ethel," he said soberly, "how long have you been going to ball games?"

The young woman looked confused and then swallowed hard. "This is the first time," she confessed miserably. "I thought you wouldn't know!"

"You poor child!" said the young man. "Come on, let's get out of this and we'll go and buy some tea cream soda and enjoy ourselves!"—New York Times.

DEMOCRATS MAKE BIG MISTAKE IN PHILIPPINES

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Dean C. Worcester, for thirteen years Secretary of the Interior, in the Philippine Islands, arrived here yesterday on the Pacific liner Manchuria. He resigned his post Sept. 15 last. His arrival has been awaited with interest, as he is the first prominent Philippine official to reach here since the induction of the new governor general, Francis Burton Harrison of New York, and the introduction of President Wilson's policy that whenever feasible the Philippines is to be preferred to the American as an official. Mr. Worcester said, yesterday afternoon:

"I left Manila fourteen days after the arrival there of Governor General Harrison and before he had time to go very far with the development of his policy. Within that brief time arrangements had been completed to displace with the services of several of the most competent bureau chiefs and assistant chiefs of the Insular Government. The resignations of Captain Charles H. Sledge, director of lands, and of Colonel Henry McCoy, Insular collector of customs, were the first requested. The vacancy created by Captain Sledge's removal was immediately filled by the appointment of Manuel Tiano, a bright young Filipino of good character but absolutely lacking in knowledge of public land matters and administrative experience, which would fit him to conduct a business enterprise of anything approaching such very large dimensions.

"Heretofore the policy has been to give to the poor man—the poor Filipino, who make up the bulk of the Christian population—and to the ignorant wild man as well, all possible assistance in securing homestead or free patents or in purchasing the usually small tracts of land which they desire. It has been the hope of the Government that the very large majority of the inhabitants would become land owners, so that some small proportion of the immense areas of rich unoccupied public land might be come privately owned and be made productive.

Keeping Poor in Poverty

"Very many wealthy Filipinos have large land owners desire to have the less fortunate people secure land, preferring to keep them in penury, or a state closely approximating it. Captain Sledge had generally interested himself in instructing the poor and ignorant as to their rights and in assisting them to assert those rights. By doing this he made himself very unpopular with the Filipino politicians, and a man of their own race will find it very hard to resist the pressure which will be brought to bear by the rich against the poor.

"The Director of Lands furthermore administered some $7,000,000 worth of so-called prior lands, purchased by the Insular Government from religious corporations, in order that they may be ready to their occupants. All occupants have been given the opportunity to repurchase their holdings, and most have elected to do so, buying on the installment plan. Being Asiatics and inclined to put things off, they need constant and kindly encouragement and stimulation, or they are liable to fall badly behind in their payments and get into serious trouble. In commenting upon his own appointment, Tiano said that he knew nothing about the work. While I like him personally, I must say that he is utterly incompetent to perform the work. John R. Wilson, assistant director of lands, has also resigned, and it is improbable that any competent person can be found for the salary of this position, to tell Tiano what to do.

Menace in Filipino Commission

Colonel McCoy, the collector of customs, was a highly competent, energetic, and capable official of unquestioned integrity and thoroughly familiar with the details of the work of his important office. His removal was strictly political.

"Close on the heels of these events came another especially extraordinary occurrence. The Insular Government has taken special pride in the work of its Bureau of Printing, because of the excellence of the product, and the extraordinary low cost. Its director, John Leech, from the outset had given special attention to the training of Filipinos, making of his bureau a great industrial school and fitting many young men for remunerative employment. He had incurred the ill-will of some Americans by pushing Filipino employees up until they were performing approximately 95 per cent of the work of the bureau.

"Immediately after Mr. Harrison's arrival there were rumors of sweeping salary reductions. Some American employees, entitled under their contracts to promotion in the near future became alarmed, and after consulting Mr. Leech, sent a respectful telegram to the President protesting against any such reduction. Without consulting Mr. Leech, they also sent a telegram to the presiding officer of the International Typographical Union in the United States, protesting against the reduction and requesting him to secure a hearing.

"Both messages, in my opinion, were perfectly proper. Copies were promptly sent to the governor general, who seemed to be incensed because they had been sent. He closely examined Leech as to his knowledge of the matter, and asked him the names of the employees who had conferred with him. He demanded the director's immediate resignation when he refused to give them. The resignation of the assistant director of the bureau was demanded at the same time.

Helping the Democrats.

"Prior to my departure I was informed that the governor general had called to Washington for advice as to how far he could go with removals without violating the letter of the Philippine civil service act. It is a fair conclusion from his first week's work that he intends to go the limit. While en route to the islands he gave out an interview in which he stated in effect that for years he had seen Democrats badly treated as such, and that he took sardonic pleasure in now being able to accord similar treatment to Republicans. Heretofore the Philippine service has been kept remarkably free from this sort of thing, and his appearance at this time must cause grave concern to all advocates of capable and honest administration.

"By far the most important and dangerous thing which has been done by the appointment of the majority of Filipinos to the Philippine Commission. The present Legislature consists of two houses, an elective Assembly of eighty-one Filipino members representing thirty-four provinces and the Philippine Commission, an appointive body of nine members. Five of these latter have heretofore been Americans. There is another reason why this change should not have taken place. When the existing Legislature was established, its jurisdiction was limited by Congress to the regularly organized provinces inhabited chiefly by one or another of the Christianized people known collectively as the Filipinos, while exclusive legislative jurisdiction over the territory inhabited by the Moros and other non-Christian tribes remained vested in the commission. It was unquestionably the purpose of Congress thus to continue American control and legislation for the non-Christians, of whom there are slightly more than 1,000,000.

"Without violating the letter of the law, the spirit has been trampled upon. Every true friend of civilization familiar with the facts must view with grave concern the placing of legislative control over the wild tribes in the hands of their bitter enemies, who have viewed with distrust the efforts heretofore made to improve the condition of these backward people. The Filipinos have never ceased to warn them that American occupancy was only temporary, and to threaten them with dire punishment for the present 'insubordination' when they, the Filipinos, gained the whip hand."

TEXAS JOINS IN MOVEMENT FOR NATIONAL HIGHWAYS

Texas has followed the lead of Ohio, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia in demanding that the government build and maintain a system of national highways. At Dallas, last week, the Texas Good Roads Association took action that resulted in its amalgamation with the National Highways Association, of which it has now become the Texas Division.

By the terms of its regulations it will "urge the adoption of a comprehensive and efficient plan of administration that will improve, maintain, and unify as one complete system the public thoroughfares of the country, to the end that we may secure a National highway system, a State highway system, and a County highway system, each a distinct unit, yet all integral factors of a complete system of good roads everywhere. In broadening its field of activity by joining in the great movement for national highways, the Texas organization, its officers say, is in a stronger position than ever before to work for good roads in its own state. The regulations declare that the association will "insist that road officials shall faithfully perform the duties of their respective offices, and will strive to secure integrity of expenditure and skill in construction and maintenance in all road building and road improvement."

The officers of the new Texas division of the National highways association are John W. Warren, of San Antonio, president; E. W. Kirkpatrick, of McKinney, first vice president; Homer D. Wade, of Stamford, secretary and treasurer, and J. E. Culp, of San Antonio, assistant secretary.

STATE SHOULD GUARD WELL THE FORESTS

Washington, Nov. 13.—In addition to the administration of its waste lands for forest purposes, the individual state should play a part in cooperating with private timberland owners, commensurate with the interest which the state has in maintaining its timber supply.

This principle is enunciated by the committee on state forestry at the national conservation congress here. The committee further recommends as general principles for the practice of state forestry everywhere that the governing board should be removed from partisan political control, and that the state forester should be filled for his work by professional training and experience.

Civil service should govern in the selection of all forest officers, and all industries directly dependent on the forests should be represented on the state forestry board. Further, the committee says, the forest officers should have ample discretionary power, and should be delegated enough authority to settle controversies as they arise.

After an organization is formed it should be provided with machinery which will make its work effective, such as ample funds, a sufficient force prompt and effective measures against forest vandalism, and a strong police power. Without including all these things, the committee says, state legislation will fail of its purpose and largely be a dead letter.

HARD LABOR FOR LAZY HUSBANDS

Pennsylvania's New Law Gives Neglected Wives 65 Cents Daily for Food.

When a guard at the house of correction turned to look toward the far end of the long stone quarters under his supervision, one of the men behind him, with a furtive glance at the official, put a hand tenderly to the small of his back and, with many a creak of joints and spasm of pain on his back, tried to straighten up.

It was apparent that his back was aching terribly from hours of stooping and swinging the sledge which he negligently from his hands as he tried to straighten up and curtsy his spine. As the palm of his hand touched the rough cloth of his striped uniform his face was contorted with pain and he jerked his hand away, to look at it pityingly. It was roughened and knarled. In places it had blistered.

and the heaters had broken, leaving open sore spots. And the muscles were cramped from handling the heavy hammer.

There was nothing about the man to distinguish him from other prisoners of "the Correction," unless a sudden, bailing rebellion against his restraint and the manual labor might be counted. Yet four months ago the man was known as a "dandy" and a "chestnut street dude." His clothes were models for other young men who called themselves his friends. He worked at whatever he could get to do when work became necessary, and as soon as he had accumulated enough money to buy more fine clothes and enjoy himself he quit. Few of those who knew him in his gay hours in the cafes and on the streets knew that he was possessed of a wife whom he refused to support.

A New Law in Force.

The change from the Heaz Brummel to the prison laborer was brought about because of that failure to support and under a law enacted by the last Legislature. By its provisions the young wife will receive 65 cents a day for each working day her husband spends at the house of correction, more than she ever received when he was free.

This man is one of 22 who have been committed to the house of correction under the act of June 12, 1913. Before this law went into effect, husbands who refused to support their wives could be punished only by sending them to the county prison, where there was even less chance of their contributing support than when they were at liberty. A neglected wife faced but two alternatives—letting her husband run at large and taking a chance on getting what money she could from him, or having him arrested and sent to prison, when it was certain she could get nothing.

Under the new law, which went into effect Sept. 1, it is optional with the trial judge to send the man to the county prison or to the house of correction. When he is sent to the latter institution, his commitment specifies that he must be put at hard manual labor, and the law provides that the sum of 65 cents for each working day shall be paid to the wife, the money to be charged up to the ordinary running expenses of the institution.

Doubt as to Payments.

Thus far none of the wives has received a cent of the 65 cents a day due her, for the reason that there is some doubt as to the method of paying it out. It is expected that the city solicitor will make formal demand in a few days on the county commissioners for the money. The commissioners are expected to refuse payment, to obtain a judicial ruling on the question. Then the solicitor will bring a mandamus proceeding, and the subject will come before the courts.

In spite of the fact that no money has yet been paid to the women whose husbands are at work, "on the stone pile" both the city solicitor's staff and the management of the house of correction believe the law is a big step in the right direction. At the worst, the women are no worse off than under the old law, and eventually the legal phase of the question will be cleared up so that they can get their money. It is believed that the money will be paid over to the department of health and charities as distributing agent to disburse it among the wives of the prisoners.

Assistant City Solicitor James B. McGrane, who is in charge of desertion cases, believes the new law will have a salutary effect in bringing recalcitrant husbands to time. As a rule, he said, they are men who either do not want to work, or who want to enjoy all the fruit of their toil themselves, without regard to the obligations they have undertaken in marrying. The more knowledge that they make themselves liable to hard, compulsory labor, without the return to themselves of a cent, he said, is likely to bring them to the decision that obedience to the always moderate court orders would be the lesser of evils.

Up at the house of correction, Horace L. Davenport, the master warden, expressed the belief that the correctional influence of the new law could be nothing but good. As to the fear of the financial relief for the deserted wife, he said, he is not familiar enough with conditions to express an opinion, although on the face of it, it appeared to be a good idea. But the substitution of hard labor for the enforced idleness of imprisonment in the county prison, he was quite certain, would have a marked effect on deserting husbands.

Three Settle Arrears.

Of the 22 men three have settled their arrears in part, and all five have been released, leaving 17 still at work. The phrase "on the stone pile" as applied to these men is pretty literally true. They are not singled out especially for any kind of work, but with the common run of correction prisoners, are given whatever hard work there is to do about the place, including farming, ditch-digging, quarrying, etc. The only specification is that they must have "hard manual labor." According to Mr. Davenport none of the prisoners has anything else.

It so happens, however, that nearly all of the men sent up because they refuse to support their wives are at work in the stone quarry, which is the only real "stone pile," or at the task of digging a trench for laying a gas main, which is to supply a portion of the city with gas from the house of correction plant. One young wife, who went to see her husband last week, rushed into the city solicitor's office on her return, and with tragic eyes told how her husband was bowed and his hands bruised and blistered and said she wanted him released at once. As Mr. McGrane did not feel justified in believing the man's promises of reform, however, he will be allowed to serve out his term. He is the man who was known as a "chestnut street dude." The usual term for which men are committed in non-support cases is three months.

Pursued and Brought Back.

One feature of the prosecution of deserting husbands which makes their lot harder under the present administration of the city solicitor's office is the system of pursuing them when they flee the jurisdiction. Heretofore, when a husband refused to support his wife and she took the case to court, all the husband had to do was to go out of the county. Unless the wife located him and brought him back, she had no recourse.

Now, when a man quits the jurisdiction, leaving destitute children behind him, the expense of locating him and having him arrested and brought back to the city is borne by the city solicitor's department. Where no children are left and there is no danger of the wife becoming a public charge, she must defray the expenses.

The 22 men who have been committed are a pretty average run of citizens, neither much better than the usual type of house of correction prisoners, nor much worse than many men walking the streets, so far as worldly position and goods go. One man owns his own property. He left the jurisdiction, but was lured back by his wife on pretense of obtaining his signature to some papers for the sale of property, when he was arrested and committed. Two of the 22 are negroes.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

TO AVOID GRADES IN ROAD BUILDING

Washington, Nov. 18.—Good roads in the future should be built on the zig-zag plan for the avoidance of hills and steep grades, the Federal Bureau of Good Roads announced today in declaring that the lives of horses and automobiles could be lengthened thereby and the cost of hauling reduced materially. The experts contend that "the longest way around often may be the shortest and most economical way home," and decried the natural tendency to build straight roads, despite heavy grades.

According to the testimony of farmers consulted, the bureau declares, "where a horse might be able to pull 4000 pounds on a level road it would have difficulty in pulling 3000 pounds up a steep hill. The size of the loads therefore, tends to be measured by the grade of the largest hill on the road to market. In a number of cases actual experiment shows that the relocating of roads around hills has been accomplished with no addition in road length in some instances, and with the addition of only a few feet to the highway in others."

Disinclination of communities and individuals to sacrifice rich and fertile land to road purposes, the Government experts acknowledge stands in the way of carrying out the proposed reform. They are seeking to impress on the rural communities, however, the economical advantages to be gained by the elimination of steep grades from the seats of supply to the markets.

PHYSICIAN FLOUTED BY TOM EDISON

New York, Nov. 17.—Thomas A. Edison has again broken from the restraining orders of his physician, Dr. John Hammond Bradshaw, who attended him in his recent illness and is back in his laboratory at West Orange, N. J., much to the chagrin of Mrs. Edison and the members of his family.

Despite the persuasions of Mrs. Edison and the threat that he might become ill again from overwork, Mr. Edison remarked yesterday: "Overwork never hurt me, but a lack of work knocks me out."

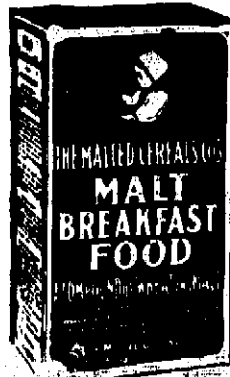

NAVY MEN ARE RE-ENLISTING

For the first time in years more than half of the enlisted men of the navy are re-enlisting in the service at the expiration of their terms and the outlook is for a still greater increase in the near future.

Unlike the Army the Navy is experiencing no trouble whatever in getting men. Every day there come in hundreds of fifty or more letters to the recruiting officers, from parents, guardians and from the young boys and men themselves, asking for information as to the quickest and best way to get into the Navy.
